Repression of Dissent in Sri Lanka

January- March 2021

1. Methodology

This report provides some general trends and details of some significant incidents related to the repression of dissent in Sri Lanka in the months of April to June 2021.

This report was prepared mainly based on the information reported in mainstream and social media. Incidents of repression mentioned in this report include arrests, threats, intimidation, investigations against human rights defenders (HRDs) etc. and potential threats such as new repressive laws, appointments, policy decisions etc., which may have a negative impact on freedom of expression, assembly, association and dissent in the future.

In this report, “dissent” is broadly defined to include acts of protest, resistance, defiance, challenge against, question or attempt to record rights violations, social injustice at the hands of state or non-state apparatus, including police, armed forces, religious groups, and politicians among others. “Repression” is defined as any attempt by the above state or non-state actors to suppress the acts of dissent. Any rhetoric decrying human rights has also been considered as repression of dissent because of its potential to erode rights. We have also included government officials who had faced reprisals when trying to do their duties.

The report is based on 78 incidents related to repression of dissent in Sri Lanka. Section 1 describes the methodology. Section 2 describes the socio-political context and some trends relating to the human rights situation in Sri Lanka during the month. Section 3 provides updates about ongoing legal cases related to dissent. Section 4 provides a thematic summaries of the incidents described in the report. 2. Context

Rule of law: One convict and a few accused who had a close connection with the ruling government were pardoned and acquitted from their cases. In June 2021, the murder convict and former MP Duminda Silva was granted Presidential pardon despite of strong opposition from UN, human rights and civil society activists¹. The other convicts of the same case were not granted pardon. However, 92 other prisoners including 16 Tamil political prisoners received presidential pardon². One month after pardoning, in July 2021, President Rajapaksa appointed Duminda Silva as the chairman of National Housing Development Authority³. Soon after Hirunika Pemachandra, the daughter of assassinated MP Bharatha Lakshman Premachandra filed a fundamental rights petition in the Supreme Court⁴. In September 2016, former MP Duminda Silva along with three others were sentenced to death for shooting late MP Bharatha Lakshman Premachandra and three of his supporters during local elections in Colombo in 2011⁵.

On 21st of May, a three-judge bench of the Permanent High Court Trial-at-Bar ordered the acquittal and release of eight suspects, including Nissanka Yapa Senadhipathi, Chairman of Avant Garde, who were charged with operating a floating armoury at sea. The defendants were accused of operating a floating armoury on board the MV Avant Garde near the Galle Harbour, illegal possession and transportation of 203,395 live ammunition without a license on board and causing a financial loss of 11.4 billion rupees to the Government by granting approval to the Avant Garde Maritime Services to operate a floating armoury in Galle Harbour during the period from 07 August 2012 to 8 January 2015⁶. The three-judge panel ruled that the ship appeared to have a valid license to possess firearms and ammunition based on a letter issued by the defence Ministry and a statement given by the former Defence Secretary⁷. On 7th May, former MP Nishantha Muthuhettigama and four other suspects were released from the case filed over the abduction and unlawful detention of an individual⁸. On 1st April ruling Sri Lanka Podujana Peramuna (SLPP) MP Milan Jayathilake and former Chairman of the Dompe Pradeshiya Sabha Ajith Sisira Kumara were released from the charges filed in connection to a bribery case, after the Commission to Investigate Allegations of Bribery or Corruption had informed the Court that it will withdraw the case filed against the two suspects.⁹ Four bribery cases filed against former Development Lotteries Board Chairman Chandrawansa Pathiraja were withdrawn by the bribery commission as the commission withdrew its charges claiming that the case was filed without the approval of all three commissioners. He was accused of incurring a loss of Rs.64 million to the government in 2010 during his tenure as Development Lotteries Board Chairman by dealing with private institutions that had not signed agreements for the sale of lotteries.¹⁰

Extrajudicial killings: Two custodial killings of underworld figures occurred 11-13 of May. On 11th May, underworld figure Mabulage Dineth Melan Mabula alias “Urujuwa” was killed in the custody of Nawagamuwa Police. He had been arrested soon after his release from Boosa prison and taken “to a location in Nawagamuwa where an incident occurred that Police had to shoot him” according to the Police¹¹. Similarly on 13th of June, underworld figure Kosgoda Tharaka was shot dead at Meerigama when he had supposedly attempted to attack the police who had escorted him to a site to recover some stashed weapons according to Police. However, the news website Lankaenews¹² warned that Kosgoda Tharaka was going to be shot dead by an alleged hit squad purportedly operated by the Peliyagoda Crimes Division hours before his death.¹³ Following these incidents, several organisations, including the Bar Association of Sri Lanka (BASL), the Human Rights Commission of Sri Lanka (HRCSL), and the Committee for Protecting the Rights of Prisoners (CPRP) called for in-depth investigations into these two deaths and Human Rights Commission of Sri Lanka also wrote to the Inspector General of Police requesting information¹⁴.

Committee for Protecting of Rights of Prisoners (CPRP) submitted a letter to the UN Special rapporteur on Extrajudicial Executions and UN Special rapporteur on Torture about three other suspicious deaths where family members have implicated alleged Police violence as the reason for the deaths. The victims included (1) a 49 years old Sinhalese man from Weligama area in Matara district who had been allegedly beaten by Police for violating quarantine regulations when a bus had run over him, (2) a 22 years old young Tamil man from Batticaloa district who had died due to alleged Methamphetamine intoxication according to Police, whose body had non-fatal trivial injuries which have allegedly occurred due to Police torture according to family members, and (3) a 42 years old Muslim man who had died after allegedly jumping out of the Police vehicle according to Police, who had died due to alleged Police torture according to his family members¹⁵. On 21st of June, protests occurred in Batticaloa after a Sri Lankan Ministerial Security Division (MSD) officer attached to ruling government parliamentarian Sathasivam Viyalendiran allegedly shot dead a Tamil man.¹⁶

Street punishments to Muslim civilians

Images of a group of people who purportedly violated travel restrictions being punished with kneeling down on a street in Eravur were widely circulating in social media. Photo courtesy: ColomboPage

A probe was ordered after social media posts show soldiers forcing minority Muslims to kneel on the streets as punishment for flouting COVID lockdown rules. Issuing a media statement, the Army said “it immediately removed” the personnel from their duties, “after an alleged improper conduct of a few army personnel” in Eravur, a Muslim-majority town in the eastern Batticaloa district. Initial investigation has begun, the army said, pledging “strictest action”.¹⁷

Sinking of chemical cargo ship: The Singapore-flagged MV X-Press Pearl, a chemical cargo ship, sank off Colombo in early June¹⁸ after catching fire since 20th May¹⁹. The sinking ship caused ‘significant damage’ to the environment by releasing hazardous substances into marine environment²⁰. By 30th of June, carcasses of 176 sea turtles, 20 dolphins, and 04 whales washed ashore, as a result of the disaster²¹. Fishing was temporarily banned from Kalutara South to Negombo covering more than 80 Km coastal belt. The fishing communities who were directly affected by the disaster filed a fundamental rights petition²² organized protests seeking compensation, however they were paid meagre compensation²³.

Economic crisis: Sri Lanka has been undergoing an economic crisis²⁴ as covid19 has made a strong negative impact on the country's economy along with large foreign debt repayment commitments and reduced foreign-exchange reserves. As of end-April 2021 foreign exchange reserves were reduced to USD 4.5 billion²⁵ while Sri Lanka also obtained a 250 million USD SWAP loan from Bangladesh in May.²⁶ Fuel prices were increased in mid-June.²⁷ Inflation rates also continued to increase, while food prices increased by 9.9 percent²⁸ bringing a number of challenges to the general public. In April 2021, the government also imposed import restrictions on chemical fertilizers which led to many protests among farmers around the country.²⁹

EU Resolution: On 10th June, European Parliament adopted a resolution “on the situation in Sri Lanka, in particular the arrests under the Prevention of Terrorism Act (PTA)”³⁰ ahead of reviewing the EU Generalised Scheme of Preferences Plus (GSP+), the special incentive programme which Sri Lanka is a beneficiary. The resolution paid special attention to the recent expansion of PTA that allows two years detention without trial and other issues concerning deteriorating human rights situation and accountability in Sri Lanka. The Sri Lankan government responded to the resolution claiming that it contains factual inaccuracies, and does not take cognizance of the multifaceted progress made by Sri Lanka in reconciliation and development³¹.

Remembrance Events: Sri Lanka remembered the second anniversary of Easter Sunday bomb attacks on 21st April 2021. The catholic churches across the country organized events praying and demanding justice for the victims of the attacks. Colombo Archbishop Malcolm Ranjith stated that he was ‘deeply saddened’ by the lack of progress in the investigation and accused the government of political posturing and the need to protect alliances that had hindered the probe³².

On 19th of May, Sri Lankan government commemorated the 12th National War Heroes’ Day at the War Heroes’ Memorial in Battaramulla remembering the soldiers who sacrificed their lives during the war with the participation of Sri Lankan President and Prime Minister³³. However, Tamil politicians and civil society leaders faced various restrictions and reprisals when they attempted to commemorate Mullivaikkal Remembrance Day remembering their relatives, friends and leaders who died during and end of the war.

3. Case updates

On 16th June, former Director of CID Shani Abeysekera was granted bail after being detained for more than 10 months. Former Sub Inspector of CID Sugath Mendis was also granted bail with him.³⁴ During the last regime, Abeysekera led the investigations on high profile criminal cases including killings of journalists. On 31st of July 2020, he was arrested under the allegations that he had falsely introduced certain weapons and fabricated false evidence to frame a false case against former Deputy Inspector General of Police Vass Gunawardena who was convicted for a murder. In November 2015, Former DIG Vaas Gunawardena, his son Ravindu Vaas Gunawardena and four police officers were sentenced to death by the Colombo High Court for committing the murder of millionaire businessman Mohamed Shyam in 2013 based on investigations conducted by CID led by Shani Abeysekera.³⁵ In 2018, he was again convicted for another 5 years with rigorous imprisonment for making death threats to CID detectives including Shani Abeysekera in 2013.³⁶ The alleged planting of evidence against Abeysekera is related to the firearms that were used for the murder of Mohamed Siyam. In his bail petition, Abeysekera argued that Complainant has failed to establish prima facie to the reasonable satisfaction of the court that there was material in support of any of the allegations; and there are no reasonable grounds for believing that he is likely to have committed the offence alleged against him, and unsubstantiated allegations are ill-founded and based on purported positions³⁷.

On 11th June, the long detained human rights lawyer under Prevention of Terrorism act Attorney-at-law Hejaaz Hizbullah and a suspect of the same case Mohamed Khan Mohamed Shakeel made an application before the Puttalam High Court requesting that their indictments be served soon, as it has been more than one year since Hizbullah has been arrested in April 2020. Madrasa School Principal Shakeel was arrested in February 2021 for allegedly conspiring with and abetting Hejaaz Hizbullah on charges under the PTA and ICCPR Act and it has been 4 months since his arrest³⁸. Hizbullah was under the custody of CID, and thereafter in remand prison for more than 14 months in total. It was also brought to the notice that certain persons who are not accused in this case but witnesses have been coerced during the past 2-3 months by the CID to give incriminating evidence against Hejaaz Hizbullah and they have filed a fundamental rights petition at the Supreme Court. Since it was required that the accused being present at the time of indictments being served, high court judge made an order calling for a report from the Director General of Health Services into the viability of the accused being present before this court for serving of the indictments.³⁹

Two Fundamental Rights petitions filed on behalf of two teachers of the Al- Zuhriya Arabic College in early June said that two teachers were forced by the Criminal Investigations Department to implicate Attorney-at-Law Hejaaz Hizbullah. President's Counsel MP M.A. Sumanthiran told the court that the two teachers had told their lawyer Balasooriya during a consultation held in the presence of two CID officers who had an audio recording device, that the officers had promised "leniency" if they implicate Hizbullah⁴⁰. Similarly, a year before on 11th May 2020 three children filed Fundamental Rights petitions before the Supreme Court through their guardians that the Police have coerced them to

On 16th of May, a collective of local and international human rights organizations issued a Joint Statement Calling for Immediate Release of Poet Ahnaf Jazeem detained for a year without Charge⁴². Ahnaf Jazeem was arrested on 16th May 2020 as he was a teacher at the same school relating to the Hejaaz Hizbullah case. He was accused that the poetry he wrote allegedly promoted extremism as he had shared them with his students at the school. On 12th June, the Terrorism Investigation Division (TID) has produced the poet in court without informing the lawyer and family members, depriving the lawyer of an opportunity to make any submissions before the court in Jazeem's defence. Attorney-at-Law (AAL) Sanjaya Wilson Jayasekera, the lawyer representing poet speaking to a newspaper said that although Jazeem's father had called the Tangalle Detention Centre on 12 June, where Jazeem was previously held, it had not been communicated to him that Jazeem had been brought to Colombo to be produced before the court. When Jayasekera had contacted the TID on 14th June, they had informed him that Jazeem had been brought to Colombo on 11 June and produced before the Colombo Magistrate's Court the following day under Section 8(2) of the Prevention of Terrorism (Temporary Provisions) Act (PTA). Jazeem was arrested in connection to his Tamil language poetry anthology, titled Navarasam (Nine Emotions), which the authorities have alleged promoted "extremist" ideology, which has been refuted by academics, intellectuals and civil society activists.⁴³

Free Trade Zone Solidarity - a collective of organizations on rights of Free Trade Zone workers issued a media release commemorating the 10th anniversary since the assassination of Free trade Zone Worker Roshen Chanaka at a protest held on 30th May 2011. On the day, Police fired at protesting workers. 400 workers were hospitalized and approximately 3,000 others faced physical and mental stress related issues. Roshen Chanaka succumbed to death due to his injuries on 1st of June whilst the other 7 sustained injuries which resulted in life-long disabilities. The statement marking the 10 years highlighted that they are uncertain when the justice will be served, as the hearing of evidence is not yet over and the case is still being heard in the Negambo in the Negombo High Court. The statement also made several demands with regards to workers' rights in the context of covid-19.⁴⁵

4. Summary of incidents

4.1 Repression of Media and journalists

Journalists were restricted from directly participating at the District and Regional Coordinating Committee meetings, but allowed to have separate briefings with chairpersons and people's representatives after the meetings, according to a circular issued by the Secretary to the State Ministry of Defense, Home Affairs and Disaster Management. In another incident, Moratuwa Mayor Samanlal Fernando did not allow journalists to report on the Urban Council meeting held on On 30th June, citing covid19 health concerns.

On 7th April, freelance Journalist Malika Abeykoon was arrested by Maradana police in Colombo, while he was covering a health workers' protest rally organised by the United Health Workers Union (UHWU). He had been later assaulted by the Police while in custody. As the Police had submitted a fabricated medical report to the court claiming that he had not been assaulted, he removed his shirt and showed the judge of bruises and scars he received as a result of assaults in the previous night. A provincial journalist, Prasad Muthukudaarachchi was allegedly assaulted by a police sergeant when the journalist was covering a visit of forest officials to investigate an illegally transported load of firewood into a garment factory in Liyanagemulla, Seeduwa in Gampaha District. Later Police apologized to the journalist.

Tamil journalists travelling to Mullaitivu have repeatedly been allegedly harassed, intimidated and blocked at checkpoints by Sri Lankan military officers, despite presenting travel permits. On 20th May, a journalist was not allowed to travel to Mullaitivu despite the fact that he was covering a story as per the request of the District Secretariat and confirming his identification as a journalist. On 22nd May, another provincial journalist Shanmugam Thavaseelan was also refused permission to travel for work, despite the prior-permission obtained from the Police. Though he has been allowed to travel after contacting the Officer-in-Charge (OIC) in the Police, the delay in travelling has caused him unable to participate at the event he is going to cover. Uthayan newspaper journalist Ramachandran Sanath has complained to the Inspector General of Police alleging that he and his family have been subjected to surveillance by Police at multiple times. Sanath is a former founding co-editor of Sudar Oli newspaper and a social activist.

Journalist Chamuditha Samarawickrama has informed Inspector General of Police (IGP) Chandana D. Wickramaratne in writing about alleged death threats made against him and has requested an investigation. Samarawickrama further claimed that there could be a link between the death threats he had received and his recent commentary demanding legal action regarding an incident involving a party organised by an actress and a fashion designer during a period when the travel restrictions were in place. The Director of the Karapitiya Teaching Hospital has complained to the Galle Police Headquarters, seeking the disclosure of sources related to an article published on rata.lk by its editor Sajeeva Wijeweera regarding an investigative article on covid19 situation. The hospital's Director requested an inquiry to figure out how an internal document had been obtained by the journalist and subsequently the journalist was summoned to the Police. A journalist working for Newsfirst television channel has been obstructed and intimidated while recording footage of a Chinese Sri Lankan Joint Venture to dredge and clean Tissamaharama ancient irrigation tank.

4.2 Repression of Freedom of Assembly

Army Commander General Shavendra Silva announced that a decision has been taken to suspend all rallies and events related to the Labour Day on 1st May. Though he claimed that a common consensus was reached among the leaders of political parties on this, several opposition parties spoke to the media claiming that they were not consulted. On 1st of May, when a coalition of 12 trade unions organized a May Day rally, Police initially attempted to disrupt it, though they were later allowed. This was the third consecutive year that May Day rallies were not held due to Easter Sunday Bombings and covid-19 situation.

The Foreign Minister MP Dinesh Gunawardane requested the Speaker of the parliament to conduct an inquiry into the posters and materials arrested by Parliament Police that were brought into parliament by the Opposition MPs demanding justice for easter Sunday bombings. Gunawardane alleged that they have breached the security of the parliament. The Kaduwela Magistrate's Court has instructed the Thalangama Police to take legal action against a group of Samagi Jana Balawegaya (SJB) parliamentarians and party members who allegedly violated the quarantine laws and staged protests on the way to Parliament. Opposition political parties JVP and SJB held protests against the port city bill on 19th and 20th May.

When the government imposed a ban on using private vehicles to travel, an individual who protested the government's ban by using a wheelbarrow to transport goods purchased from a Supermarket and shared the video in social media was arrested for allegedly violating covid19 regulations for not wearing a facemask in the video. A man was arrested for his involvement in encouraging motorists to honk in protest against the closing of roads in Borella town to allow the movement of the VVIP convoy of visiting Chinese Defence Minister General Wei Fenghe. After being released on bail, he extended his apology to the Police and the Government for his actions.

Police have arrested ten people, including the provincial council's deputy chairman for Puthukkudiyiruppu, Mullaitivu, following protests against the reopening of a garment factory amidst fears of the COVID-19 pandemic spreading. The ten people arrested by the police were later released on bail. Police disrupted a protest organized by fishermen of Modara whose livelihoods have been jeopardized owing to the sinking of MV XPress Pearl ship incident. Protestors alleged that police had groped their private parts while disrupting a protest. Members of the Front-Line Socialist Party who joined the protest were admitted to the hospital with injuries. During a protest by students held in Colombo, Police have forcefully seized an effigy that resembles President Rajapakse, and other protest materials. It seemed that Police had been primarily tasked with removing the effigy of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa from the protest site. A group of assailants led by Chairman of SLPP-ruled Rideemaliyadda Pradeshiya Sabha Nishantha Jayasundara has reportedly assaulted a group of residents who were carrying out a silent protest over alleged irregularities occurred during the carpeting of the Rideemaliyadda - Weeragolla road. Jamburewela Chandrarathana a Buddhist monk linked to ultra-nationalist group Bodu Bala Sena was also arrested during a protest demanding to solve pension issues of wives of 'war veterans'.

Those who commemorated the Mullivaikkal Remembrance Day remembering the Tamils who lost their lives at the end of the civil war faced numerous harassments at the hands of military and Police. Sri Lankan military have allegedly vandalised the Mullivaikkal memorial monument located in Mullivaikkal East in early hours of 13th May, just hours after the security forces blocked Tamils from erecting a memorial stone at the site. When they finally were allowed access in the early hours of the morning, the constructed site was in ruins. The memorial monument, which depicts a pair of outstretched hands, had been broken off and tossed into the nearby sand, while a large memorial stone with engraved names had disappeared completely. He was also obstructed while holding a vigil at the World Tamil Conference massacre memorial in Jaffna. A video showed soldiers trying to snatch the candles that he is trying to light. The Police who arrived at the scene later have allegedly threatened to arrest him for allegedly violating health restrictions. His office in Valvettithurai in Jaffna had been surrounded by the military when he was conducting another vigil. Similarly, the military have surrounded the private residence of the Tamil politician Peter Ilanchelivan when he was holding a private vigil remembering lives lost during the war, while public commemorations had been completely banned on the day.

The police have stated that only 'essential' services have been allowed to take place.

4.3 Repression of NGOs and civil society

Plans to strengthen NGO secretariat and related laws: On 12th of May, the Morning newspaper published that the National Secretariat for Non-Governmental Organisations (NGO Secretariat) is planning to be transformed into a monitoring body with powers to conduct probes and to file cases against malpractices carried out by NGOs. A subcommittee has been appointed to propose reforms to the NGO secretariat, is expected to hand over its final draft to the Secretary of Defence by June this year. Meanwhile Government owned newspaper Dinamina published an article calling for mandatory registration of all NGOs with the NGO Secretariat. It also called for special attention into foreign government funding programmes such as USAID, UKAID, KOICA, JAICA, NORAD, SIDA, GiZ etc. and claimed that these funding programmes have been designed to serve hidden political interests of Western Nations. It also called to maintain a database that includes information on funding sources, objectives of the organization, target groups, geographical locations, beneficiaries and how the project is implemented at provincial level, and using government administrative mechanisms to monitor activities of NGOs at the provincial level and proposed instruction from Divisional Secretariats in designing projects, and selection, and prioritization of target groups. Also it proposed to bring laws to regulate entry and exit of INGOs into the country.

Investigations into civil society organizations: On or before 14th April, Director General of NGO Secretariat Raja Gunarathna stated that the government has launched investigations into 38 NGOs. On 3rd April, Divaina newspaper reported that a government official had called three officers of the Movement for Land and Agricultural Reform (MONLAR) into an inquiry and questioned why they had sent a report to a German funder⁴⁶ claiming that Gotabaya Rajapakse had abducted and killed journalists.

The same newspaper article also made several defamatory accusations against two local NGOs, former HRCSL commissioner, and an INGO, and USAID. The article claimed that MONLAR has produced such a report for financial gains as 'selling human rights is a profitable business' while their organizational mandate is a different one. It also alleged that the National Peace Council (NPC) had made undue interventions into national security and local politics in Sri Lanka, while Global Communities had allegedly implemented 'mystery projects' in the former conflict zones of the country, with the support of USAID that was labelled by the newspaper as a 'CIA agent'. Former Human Rights commissioner Ambika Satkunathan was accused of allegedly being pro-LTTE in the same press article.

Banning organizations: On 13th April, the state owned Sinhala language newspaper Dinamina published a news article claiming that the government has banned NGOs in Sri Lanka from (1) signing agreements with foreign countries, and (2) accepting money from foreign countries. Article further said the government has taken this decision in the context that various NGOs have provided funds for religious extremism and fundamentalism. It also said that Security forces have found out that 32 Islamic organizations and 11 'separatist' organizations in the North have received such funding.

A gazette notification was issued by the Sri Lankan government banning 11 islamic groups including 'Save the pearls' organization which detained human rights lawyer Hejaaz Hizbullah's arrest is linked to. Hejaaz Hizbullah played a key role in the organization before his arrest. The list of organizations that were banned included two well-known international islamic terrorist groups Al-Qaeda and ISIS, local islamic groups that included the term 'Thowheedh' in their name, Sri Lanka Islamic Student Movement (SLISM) and several other groups. While majority of these local groups are not publicly known to have any links with terrorism, inclusion of 'Save the pearls' in the list seems as an extension of the legal case against Hizbullah. Save the Pearl is an organization that supported the education of underprivileged children, hoping to lure them away from criminal activities and drug abuse.

He was released on bail after two days. The Sri Lanka Computer Emergency Readiness Team (SLCERT) clarified earlier that Government websites had not been hacked. However he clarified that the websites have been affected due to other websites conducting the search engine optimization update. Websites add metadata into the Google search engine in order for their websites to show up on Google and it has been observed that certain websites are currently misusing metadata based on the google optimization feature to attract traffic by using popular Government site names SLCERT said.

On 8th of June issuing a media statement titled "circulation of fake news, photographs, videos causing disunity, hate and obstructing the Covid-19 programme", the Police stated that various individuals and groups have been found to be spreading fake news on social media platforms and they will be prosecuted under Penal code and other relevant laws. Several organizations pointed out this statement could be misused by Police to restrict freedom of speech and expression.

President issued several gazette notifications declaring a long list of services as 'essential services'. Declaring government services as essential services has been a known tactic to stop protests and trade union actions in the government sector in Sri Lanka.

Gazettes calling on the armed forces to maintain public order were reissued in April, May and June, providing the military with additional powers to intervene in civilian affairs.

5.6 Other incidents

Repression of dissenting Politicians and their supporters: Government politician MP Wijayadasa Rajapaksa alleged that President Gotabaya Rajapaksa had threatened him via telephone over his statement that criticized the port city bill. Later SLPP announced that the party will take disciplinary action against MP Wijedasa for his criticism of the Government and President Gotabaya Rajapaksa.

Terrorism Investigation Division (TID) of Police arrested the Mayor of Jaffna for allegedly promoting the LTTE's ideology, in the choice of uniforms for an environment task force of the local municipal council. The police alleged that the uniforms worn by the environmental task force of the Jaffna Municipal Council were similar to those formerly worn by the LTTE's police force. He was accused of committing an offence under Section 120 of the Penal Code 'exciting or attempting to excite disaffection towards the President and the government.' Speaking at a press conference, the Mayor said that similar uniforms were worn by a similar Task Force in Colombo Municipal Council. In a different incident, Police interrogated the chair of a divisional council in Kilinochchi over the naming of a street in Santhapuram as 'Vettri Lane', after a former LTTE cadre who had undergone the government's rehabilitation programme. They have also threatened to take legal action for allegedly attempting to revive terrorism in case if they failed to do so.

Several opposition political party members who protested against the government's decision to increase fuel price by travelling in bullock carts were arrested by Police for allegedly violating quarantine regulations. Police said that suspects were released under Police bail. The protestors wore masks and social distancing was maintained during the protest as per the photos and videos published in media. INFORM believes that these arrests indicate reprisal against criticisms of the government rather than any health priority.

A social media activist supportive of Opposition party Samagi Jana Balawegaya (SJB) named Sumudu Tharanga Waidyarathne residing in Galle was arrested in relation to a post he has posted online. He was later released on the same day. According to Lankadeepa he had published a Facebook post accusing that the government had knowingly brought the Xpress Pearl ship to be sunk in Sri Lankan seas. This statement could have been in the context that government MP Vasudewa Nanayakkara made a public statement claiming that Xpress Pearl ship is a windfall for the country that is amidst much economic difficulties. Other politicians and social activists also expressed their doubts about lack of clarity on how the ship was allowed into Sri Lankan waters when two harbours have already refused their lack of expertise to handle cargoes that were leaking with chemicals.

Freedom of expression online: Various environmental activists accused that their profiles were either blocked, or their posts relating to environmental destruction were removed, allegedly claiming that they have violated community guidelines. According to them, the posts were sometimes removed considering terminology, without considering the context or perhaps based on direct translations. Also they pointed out pro-government facebook users are not blocked for publishing the same content, it seems that they were targeted for publishing content criticizing the government. Government MP Sampath Athukorala published a facebook post alleging that youtuber 'Ratta' is a member of Opposition Party JVP and spread false news targeting the government as he had criticized government's failure to bring justice to the victims of Easter Sunday Bomb attack in April 2019. Six Sri Lankan Media rights groups issued a statement condemning his statement and demanding public apology for allegedly insulting and undermining the journalists who were killed because of their important work in a context where many of their cases remain in impunity. Such defamatory statements about assassinated journalists from public officials could hurt the feelings of family members and others pursuing justice, and could contribute to long remaining impunity.

A Tamil youth has been arrested in Kopay, Jaffna for allegedly having a photo of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) leader Velupillai Prabhakaran on his smartphone.
